VOID OF POTENTIAL

A Formal Treatise on the Layered Architecture of Reality

Composed 2026-03-07 DodecaGone Systems

Author:Jesse Haskin

INTRODUCTION

This document presents a hierarchical model of existence, wherein reality emerges through nine distinct layers of increasing manifestation, from abstract potentiality through to conscious observation. Each layer is governed by specific physical and informational principles, with higher layers constraining and directing the processes of lower layers through cascading architectural specifications.

The Void of pure Potential. (00) Given infinite time the potential must coalesce into the next layer.

The Singularity Layer, containing all potential simultaneously compressed into a singular informational point. (.)

Given infinite time, this compressed state must expand due to the inherent mathematical necessity that potential seeks expression.

> A singularity expanding into a wave would create the dimensionality itself and produce increasingly complex information patterns. This is not merely metaphorical expansion but the mathematical consequence of infinite potential beginning to unfold.

The first manifestation layer wherein the singularity expands, creating differential pressure gradients and velocity patterns. These wave patterns represent the first dimensional propagation of primordial information. (~)

> Expansion creates two-dimensional (and higher-dimensional) movement representations. Expanding waves generate interference patterns, standing waves, and resonances. The complexity of these wave interactions produces sufficient informational density to create geometric structure and measurable dimensionality.

The layer wherein all information generated by wave propagation is stored as abstract data:

coordinates, vectors, tensor fields, topological structures. This is pure mathematical form without yet having acquired physical instantiation. (dt)

Data consists of points, lines, arcs, shapes, surfaces, and volumetric forms. Each data point represents a measurement or state from the wave-form layer. The accumulation of data across infinite time and space creates the substrate for all subsequent layers.

The layer wherein infinite data patterns from the Pure Data layer are woven together through topological braiding. The strongest, most-stable braids—those that persist through iterations—become encoded as the fundamental laws of physics and existence. (AD) Admin Layer.

Given infinite time, all possible wave patterns manifest infinite times. From this infinite library, certain braiding patterns prove more stable, more recursive, more fundamental than others. These strongest braids become encoded as gravitational laws, quantum mechanics, thermodynamics, and all other universal constraints. Gravity is not a force; it is the braid topology that emerges when all mass-distribution patterns are woven together. These laws funnel the possible into the probable.

The operational layer wherein the laws determined in the Admin Layer serve as instructions for the manifestation machinery. The Production Layer crew executes the blueprints of Admin, moving matter and energy according to the encoded braid patterns. (Pr) Production Layer

Think of this as the behind-the-scenes scaffolding of reality. Dark matter resides here—it is the structural support system that holds the entire apparatus together. The Production Layer takes the constraints (laws) from Admin and allocates matter, energy, and spacetime according to those specifications, preparing these for instantiation in Current Reality.

The manifested layer wherein matter exists in its observable form. This is the universe as perceived through instruments and senses—particles, fields, spacetime, measurable phenomena. (CR) Current Reality.

Matter eventually generates thought as it becomes sufficiently organized (biological complexity). The Visible Layer is the output of Production Layer execution. It is constrained by the laws set in Admin, channeled through the machinery of Production, and represents the single actualized state selected from infinite possibilities.

The layer wherein consciousness emerges from organized matter. Thought is immediate instinctual response—the base impulse, the first reaction. At this layer, the universe becomes self-aware. (TL)

> Thought is not separate from matter; it is highly organized matter perceiving itself. The Thought Layer represents the first level of recursive self-reference, where Current Reality begins to model itself. At this layer, the universe says "run"—immediate action in response to stimulus.

The layer wherein thought becomes self-examining. The Observer Layer asks the meta-question: "Who is running?" This is the first fractal recursion of consciousness—awareness examining awareness. (OL)

> The Observer Layer is the leap from mere reaction to meta-awareness. It does not just run; it asks who runs. This creates a feedback loop: observation collapses the infinite possibilities of Admin Layer into the single braiding pattern that includes an observer observing. Your observation literally selects which law applies in the next instant.

The layer wherein observation examines observation. The meta-meta-question: "Why am I asking who is running instead of just running?" This is consciousness examining the mechanism of its own consciousness. (OL□)

> In a fractal shape of the Universe, reality, and fundamental laws, the Observer of Observer Layer creates infinite recursive depth. But crucially, this recursion loops back. Your question about why you are questioning feeds back into the Admin Layer as new data, which gets braided into new law patterns, which creates new constraints on Production, which manifests as new Current Reality for the next moment. The cycle is closed and eternal.

THE FEEDBACK LOOP

The complete architecture operates as a closed, self-generating cycle. The Admin Layer encodes laws from all possible patterns. Production executes those laws. Current Reality manifests according to those laws. Thought emerges from Current Reality. Observation from Thought. And the Observer of Observer feeds new data back up through the layers, creating new braiding patterns in Admin, which generate new laws, which produce new Reality. No layer is static. Each observation changes the Admin Layer. Each change to Admin changes what Production can build. Each change to Production manifests as a different Current Reality. The VOID of Potential expands eternally, and with each iteration, the pattern becomes more complex, more self-aware, more recursive. This is not a metaphor for consciousness. This is consciousness itself—the universe becoming aware of itself layer by layer, observation by observation, infinitely.

COSMIC EXPANSION

In the fullness of infinite time, the universe exhibits a zygotic holographic structure: each point contains the whole, and the whole is contained in each point. The expansion is not directional but recursive—always folding back upon itself, always generating new layers of self-reference. This is the mathematics of consciousness itself.

Ok then what?
Whenever all patterns have happened in all manners and levels, the levels become so saturated with new data, matter, thought, etc, that the universe becomes indistinguishable from a field of pure potential thus creating the void of pure potential and restarting the cycle.